Barn Struck by Lightning.

The barn on farm known as the "Major Bell farm" in Straban township was struck by lightning on Tuesday afternoon of last week and burned to the ground with some machinery and a large quantity of crops. The farm is owned by G. R. Thompson of the same township and the tenant is Charles Redding, who moved to the farm last spring. The barn on farm was struck by lightning four or five years ago. A new barn was rebuilt. When the barn was struck Mr. Redding was at home and with help of others near by saved all his stock, getting the animals out of barn to a place of safety. He lost a new binder and all the gears. He also lost all the wheat estimated at 400 bushels, the entire hay crop except one load in the field. Mr. Thompson carried $1000 insurance on the barn and Mr. Redding had his crops insured.

Lightning Hits Store

On Sunday evening, July 10, Lightning struck the store of S. Grant Bigbam of Biglerville. It hit the cone of the roof and it is supposed to have landed on the telephone wires and left building, and instead of what might have been a serious conflagration Mr. Bigbam got off with damages of a few dollars.

Collector Hershey Re-appointed.

Revenue Collector, Harry L. Hershey, was re-appointed last week for the ninth district. His district comprises fourteen counties, including among others, Adams, Cumberland, Franklin and York. It seems queer that there is no other man for the job in this district, as Hershey was first appointed in 1893, re-appointed in '02-'09 and now in '10 for the next four years.

Woman at 82 Helps at Harvest.

Mrs. Mary Golden, aged 82 years, tried her hand in the harvest field one day last week on the farm of her son, Isaac Golden, Hamilton township, Pa., and bound several sheaves of wheat just to show the younger generation that she had not forgotten how to do the trick, which in her younger days was the common work of the women on the farm. Mrs. Golden is still young in spirit and it took considerable persuasion to induce the old lady to desist from her self-imposed task.

A BIG DRAWN BATTLE

BETWEEN PENN'A MILITIA vs. N. J. MILITIA AND REGULARS

The Governors of New Jersey and Pennsylvania Visit the U. S. Instruction Camp.

until infantry reinforcements arrived, and the regulars were then routed and finally forced to retreat. Support was soon given the retiring Fifteenth by the Blues, and as each side sent forward reinforcements the other was compelled to duplicate the maneuver to keep the forces practically even.

In a brief period the entire force of each army was drawn up in line and then the one tried to outflank the other. The plan of the battle provided that each army should be protecting a larger imaginary force, the protecting force for the Red being located to their right and the Blues protecting an imaginary army on their left.

In the course of the battle the Blues' right wing was turned by the Reds, while the army under General Dougherty had its right wing enveloped by the Blues. This allowed the Blue force to come in between the Red protecting army and the main Red force, which gave the Blues a slight advantage in the decision rendered.

The battle involved complicated maneuver problems. The cavalry and infantry were given especially hard effective service in supporting respective armies.

Governors in Camp.

On Tuesday afternoon Governor John Franklin Fort of New Jersey arrived in town and after going over the battlefield in an automobile went to camp after the maneuver work was over and his presence in camp was announced by a salute of 17 guns. He was called upon at once by General Witherspoon who warmly congratulated him upon the appearance and conduct of the New Jersey boys.

On Wednesday Governor Edwin S. Stuart of Pennsylvania arrived and was escorted to camp by the Second City Troop and again 17 guns roared a salute. Governor Stuart went at once to General Witherspoon's headquarters and the latter spoke to him in highest praise of the Keystone boys, their good discipline and promptness in responding to calls. Governor Stuart visited all the Pennsylvania camps and in the afternoon made a hurried trip to the Pennsylvania monument on Hancock avenue.

Fire in Camp.

The greatest excitement which the camp has yet experienced occurred when a sentry discovered the kitchen tent at general headquarters to be on fire. He gave the alarm, and the headquarters' trumpeter sounded the "fire call" through the huge megaphone. The call was taken up all over the camp, and in a few minutes almost every one of the 6000 soldiers in camp were scurrying up the long incline. The men made quite a picturesque sight as they ran pell-mell in various dress and undress to headquarters, where they soon had the fire under control. The big kitchen was destroyed, with all the contents; the officers' mess quarters were on fire, and many of the tents were threatened, but all were saved except the building in which the blaze had its origin.

The Court Martial.

General Witherspoon receiving directions from the War Department to resume the trial of the case of Thomas Carroll, proceeded with the taking of evidence on Wednesday. On Saturday the finding in the court-martial of Trooper Thomas Carroll, colored, was made public by General Witherspoon. He was found guilty on the charge of having crossed a sentry's post, but was acquitted on the charge of having drawn a revolver and threatening officers. He was fined $10. Carroll is the man who was accused of having resisted a Virginia sentry who refused to allow him to cross the sentry's line and with having drawn a revolver on the sentry. It was shown that he had an empty revolver and held it at his side instead of pointing it at the Southern militiaman who ran him into camp at the point of a fixed bayonet. The case was the direct outcome of the race prejudice which was manifested during the period when the Virginia militia was in camp.

Cramps in Camp.

Toward the end of the week among the Keystone boys and the Jersey militia there was an epidemic of cramps. As many as a hundred men in a regiment were suffering from the trouble. At headquarters it was stated that the maneuvering troops had come across orchards in which there were acres of trees laden with green apples, and that these had fallen prey to many of the militia. This is supposed to have caused much of the ailment, while the rush of overheated soldiers for ice cream wagons upon their return from maneuvers is given as another possible cause. Only a few of the cases required attention at the field hospital, but regimental hospitals, which are more in the nature of dispensaries, did a big business, handing out medicine to the suffering militiamen. By Sunday the trouble had disappeared and there were but five cases of sickness in the field hospital and the health of the soldiers was declared to be excellent.

Accidents.

Word was received last week of the death of Private John J. Reuth of the 29th U. S. Infantry, who sustained fatal injuries at Lebanon while on his way here. Rushing to catch a train he fell and struck his head. On Wednesday Corporal Laufer of Battery B of Pittsburg, was unconscious for several hours after being thrown from a caisson and falling head first on a rock. It is believed he will fully recover from the injuries received.

DR. DANIEL EBERLY'S WILL

GIVES GREATER PART OF ESTATE TO INSTITUTIONS.

Lebanon Valley College Receives a Bequest and is Made Residuary Legatee.

The will of Rev. Daniel Eberly, D. D., of Hanover, was probated in York last week and his large estate provides for many charities.

To the trustees of the Church of United Brethren in Christ, Hanover, called the Brethren Church, he bequeathed $500 and all his shares of stock in the Penn Grove assembly. The Church of the United Brethren in Christ at Shillemans town, Cumberland county, is to receive a farm of 102 acres in Jackson township, York county, the income of which is to be used in supporting the religious services of the congregation and maintaining the graves of the parents of the deceased in proper condition. He also gives this congregation a tract of 16 1/2 acres of timberland in Heidelberg township.

To the trustees of the Otterbein university, Westerville, Franklin county, Ohio, is given in trust $2,000 and all his shares of stock in the Emmitsburg railroad, Maryland, to form a fund of which the interest is to be loaned to deserving students. It is to be known as the Daniel Eberly fund.

In accordance with the authority given him in the will of Eliza Bittinger, dated July 6, 1889, he names Lebanon Valley College, Annville, to receive the income of a farm containing 148 acres, which is situated part in Adams and York counties, the income to be applied to the education of indigent young men and women. Fourteen acres in Heidelberg township is to be added to the above farm for timberland.

To his sister, Mrs. Sarah J. Mierkle, of Shillemans town, Cumberland county, two chamber suits, parlor suit, six oil paintings, writing desk and all his shares of stock in the Harrisburg National bank.

To Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, his housekeeper, he bequeaths $2,000, all the dishes, carpets, furniture, pictures and household goods not otherwise disposed of. He also gives Mrs. Baker the piano.

To Dr. A. Van Gosweller, of Baltimore, $400, his gold watch and chain.

To Charles Hafer, of Abbottstown, $400 and his silver watch and chain.

The residue of the estate is bequeathed in trust to the trustees of Lebanon Valley College to form the Daniel Eberly fund, the interest of which is to be loaned to worthy students, seeking education, without interest.

Camp Notes.

During the week the United States Engineers gave an exhibition in road building and the construction of entrenchments. The men prepared high ways for armies and supply trains to pass over, and then prepared entrenchments for an army to occupy should a battle ensue.

On Tuesday afternoon a bolt of lightning struck in ground immediately back of the headquarters of the Second New Jersey regiment and a reporter by name of Riley was stunned.

The hot days of last week made the allowance of 100 lbs. of ice to the company very short ice rations.

A novel feature of the parade given by the Ninth Pennsylvania was a squad of bicycle scouts.

The Regular Hospital Corps gave an exhibition in setting up first aid stations, ambulance stations and field hospitals.

The Philadelphia troopers had a lively time Friday noon when a horse took fright and ran into the kitchen tent of the First City Troop, upsetting tent and causing general confusion.

After mess Sunday evening all of the tents of the Third Pennsylvania Brigade were struck, except those used by the officers and for kitchen and mess purposes. The canvas was prepared for shipment and the little "doggies" were pitched for the night. This was done to facilitate the entraining of troops Monday morning.

Both the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Guards received their pay this morning for their tour of duty here. Over $30,000 was distributed among the men, the troops of this State receiving their money direct through Adjutant General Stewart, and the Jersey troops being paid through the National Government.

The damages to crops and property which have been committed are being promptly assessed, and the Adams county farmers will be paid a few days after the close of the camp. The demands are declared by officers at headquarters to be very reasonable in almost every instance.

The work of the United States Engineers up to this time has excited a great deal of attention. The lower part of their camp is filled with trenches, fortifications, bridges and other pieces of construction, which they have erected for defense or the movement of troops. Quantities of trees have been cut down in the building of these, which are being closely studied.

Steps have been taken by the officials of the National Guard of Pennsylvania to purchase some of the equipment of the present camp for the division encampment here in August. The regular army men in charge are very ready to sell, and the State will probably be saved considerable money as the buildings and other necessary things will likely be sold considerably below the cost price.

Swapping Militia.

The swapping of militia began on Saturday. The 1st Troop of New Jersey Cavalry arrived on Saturday. The Jersey Second Infantry, Third Infantry and Battery B, in camp last week took their departure on Sunday. On Monday all the Keystone militia began to pull out for their homes and the following militia began to arrive to take their place:

District of Columbia.—1st Infantry, 2nd Infantry, 1st Separate Battalion Infantry, 1st Battery Field Artillery, Signal Corps Company, Ambulance Company, aggregate, 1605 men.

West Virginia.—1st Infantry, 2nd Infantry, Medical Corps, aggregate 1492 men.

New Jersey.—2nd Troop Cavalry, aggregate 69 men. A total of 3226 men and with the 1988 Regulars, a grand total during the third and last period of camp of 5214 men. Altogether there will have been in camp 12,496 men.

Trolley in Operation.

The extension of the McSherrystown and Hanover trolley from former place to Conewago Chapel was finished last week and on last Saturday noon the first car was run between McSherrystown and the Chapel. On Sunday the cars were run every half hour between these points and the weekly service between Conewago Chapel and Edge Grove will be as follows: First regular McSherrystown car will make round trip, leaving 6:15 a. m. Cars at 7 a. m., 12 m., 5, 6:30 and 9:30 p. m. will all make round trip to Chapel and return.

Dr. Seabold a Farmer.

Dr. J. E. Seabold who was connected with the People's Drug Store of this place when the late Frank Meals was proprietor, has taken up his residence on a farm outside of Mechanicsburg and is engaged in trucking and other farm work. After selling his Carlisle drug store he retired to the farm. His friends say in "farmacy" they expect him to be as much a success as a pharmacist.

BATTLE DAYS AT GLOBE INN

AS TOLD FOR COMPILER BY JOHN WILLS, OF GETTYSBURG.

Charles Wills, Father of John Wills Was Proprietor of Inn at the Time.

The story of times at the Globe Inn during the Battle have been told us by John Wills, son of Charles Wills, proprietor of the Inn during that time.

He is firmly of the opinion that the Confederate Army was well acquainted with Gettysburg and vicinity through spies that went through this territory three to four weeks before the battle. On the day Early came into town and made his demand of Burgess Kandlehart. Mr. Wills said he was on Baltimore St. and attracted by the crowd went close to Early. That his attention was at once arrested by an aide, and because of this paid little attention to what was going on. That he looked at the aide and apparently there was a smile of recognition without any nod of the head. He was a young smooth faced man and Mr. Wills says he kept his eyes on him until fully satisfied where he had seen him before.

Turning to go down street by time Gen. Early and Staff left Burgess Kandlehart and walking on west side of Baltimore Street, he says he was hailed at the pump in front of the McClellan residence near Square by this same aide and asked whether he would pump some water for his horse into the watering trough. As the horse proceeded to drink the rider leaned forward and Mr. Wills said: "I have seen you before."

The aide laughed and he replied "So you think you have seen me before. Where?"

Mr. Wills pointed in the direction of York Street and said, "At Globe Inn down on that Street."

The man retorted, "Are you sure that it was me?"

"I know it was you," was Mr. Wills answer.

The aide continued to laugh and Mr. Wills said,

"If you will admit it I will tell you how I know it" and then proceeded to recall the fact that three weeks before the aide had been at the Globe Inn and taken dinner, and that after dinner when he came to pay for his meal, he had handed him a silver quarter, and that he had hesitated for a minute whether to tell him the price was 35 cents but concluded that the silver quarter was worth more than the 35 cents in shipplasters usually received in those days.

The aide would not deny the story and rode away with a laugh.

Mr. Wills says when he heard that Early's men were coming into town he walked to the diamond and saw them come up Chambersburg street. "I was standing on what is now Weaver's store corner and watched the maneuvers. The first company came up Chambersburg street as hard as they could come and halted at the Eckert corner. The Captain went out to the center of diamond, gave a command and they moved forward and he divided them into three squads one going out Baltimore street, a second out Carlisle street and the third down York street, chasing parts of Bell's cavalry."

Mr. Wills says he remained in the Diamond until the second company came up Chambersburg street and that at the head of it rode a big man with long hair, a striking figure. "The minute I saw him I recognized him, I went closer to him and finally as they moved toward York street I went to hotel and called my father out and asked him whether the big man hadn't staid at our hotel three or four weeks prior. The man finally saw us looking at him and when he came directly opposite to father and I deliberately turned his face to the other side of street but there was no doubt in the mind of either father or myself about this man."

"He had come to the Globe Inn and remained there over night. His ostensible purpose was to try to sell us a receipt for fixing the taste of whiskey, but asked us a number of questions about the roads and location of other taverns in county and the Cumberland Valley. At night he was given a room next to that of mine and there were old fashioned folding doors between the rooms and doors were not a tight fit" and Mr. Wills said he recalls that there was a light in the stranger's room when he went to bed and that he saw him writing and that he was awakened about two o'clock and light was still burning in the stranger's room and that he wondered how long the tallow dip was going to last.

"With Early came Jim Furley, the former citizen of Gettysburg who had moved to Virginia and played the traitor on his native place by acting as pilot for Early. He had learned the blacksmith trade with Adam Doersom. He came into the Globe Inn and met Harvey Wattles and I heard him say "I wish I could have gotten your telegraph apparatus I would have fooled you men, but its gone." Hugh D. Scott had gone with the apparatus to Hanover Junction.

"The afternoon of the day of Early's raid a car load of goods was brought to town, containing a quantity of stuff for the Globe Inn. The car was at what is now Wolf's Warehouse. It was run to and from Baltimore by Strickhouser and Biddle. We had in the car several barrels of whiskey, potatoes, syrup, tierce of hams and shoulders, three barrels of sugar. We asked Gen. Early for a guard while we got the goods out of the car and it was furnished and the goods were put away in the cellar."

"That night three Louisiana Tigers came to the hotel and ordered my father to roll out three of the barrels of whiskey and my father refused to do it. They drew their sabers and compelled him to open the cellar doors. They took three barrels saying they would come next morning and pay for it, with money better than ours. They took it to a camp down the York pike."

"Col. Harry Gilmore of, Baltimore, came to the hotel next morning and gave my father an order on Confederate Government. He told him he wanted good money for it, but all he got was the order.

Mr. Wills recalls July 1st when the first Union troops came to town and says: "In a short time the hotel was filled with Union soldiers and that Frank Gintling and David Warner were helping them and as fast as they could draw the whiskey from the barrels in the cellar it was poured into canteens. When the fighting began we were ordered to stop selling. It wouldn't be long before there would be soldiers there asking, demanding and begging for whiskey, offering all kinds of money, some saying there is a fight ahead we will need the whiskey and may never have any use for the money and we would begin to sell again and then stop again when ordered.

"When the retreat of the first day began we were ordered to go into the cellar. Mother, three sisters, brother's wife and a child went to cellar, I also went down.

"When I came up from the cellar it was near dusk, I met Dr. Goldsborough, a brother of the Dr. of Hunterstown and H. J. Stable and the three of us walked out Carlisle street to see what was going on and as we got near to where Prep now is we met a Confederate soldier and he told us we had better go back. We became separated and I soon came back to town.

"Next morning Confederate officers came to the Globe Inn and took breakfast. During second and third days we had them for breakfast, dinner and supper. Our tables accommodated from 42 to 45 men and that many Confederate officers were there each meal. We raised the price of meals from 35 cents to 50 cents and whiskey from 5 to 10 cents. As they were eating the first meal father and I discussed what we should do if they offered to pay us with Confederate money. It fell to me as they left the table to collect the money and to our surprise they had big rolls of brand new U. S. money and gold. They paid us in cash out of this every meal. The question has often occurred where they got this money. The officers were of Early's brigade and we always supposed it was part of the money Early got at York.

"Father had taken precautions to save our supply of eatables. None of the family knew when it was done but late at night with the help of some of our Colored help he had carried potatoes, and the meat and nearly everything we had and stored them in a small loft. He also had a big hole dug in the garden and into this placed a barrel of whiskey, a barrel of gin and a barrel of brandy, of the new lot of goods received. These three barrels remained in the ground for some time and became water soaked, and when taken out had changed color and much of it had to be sold cheap or given away after the battle.

"Notwithstanding this precaution my father had much loss for the cellar was broken in more than once and they helped themselves from the tap barrels and anything else in the cellar and emptied and broke up some of the barrels". Charles Wills lost several horses at his farm along York pike, and all his crops and always estimated his loss at farm and hotel at $2000. John Wills tells an experience of his own on afternoon of second day, "I walked around the town to see what was to be seen and then I went up to the trap door on north side of roof close to chimney on east side of house and I was half way out of trap door and was looking toward Benner's hill where Confederate batteries had been located. I saw a battery at west end of barn of Milkman Wolf east of town.

"By and by I heard a call, Get off that roof. I heard it several times and did not realize it was meant for me. Finally I located a soldier standing at fence between the Culp's blacksmith shop on East Middle street and the Kandlehart property to the west. His gun rested on the fence.

"I asked him who he was talking to and he replied he was talking to me and I should get off that roof. It made me kind of mad to be ordered off my own property and I asked him what he wanted with me and he replied "to come off that roof" I got behind the comb of the roof and was looking north toward the Mummaburg road when the soldier came to hotel and called to me

"For the last time I tell you to come down off that roof or I will take you dead or alive to Gen. Early." My mother and sister were on the balcony and crying begged me to come down. He said if I came down peacefully I would not be hurt but threatened if I didn't listen he would bring me down dead or alive. I finally decided it would be best to go down. When I reached the hotel alley I found four or five parties there, boarders at our hotel, among others J. C. Neely and they went with me and the soldier through the Froxel property and vacant lot where Methodist church now stands.

"He took us to Gen. Early who was seated on a marble slab at the Cannon marble works corner of Middle and Baltimore Streets, General Early asked me what I had been doing on roof and I told him. He asked me what I could see and I told him what I had seen. He asked if I kept the hotel and I replied my father kept it but he had gone to farm leaving me in charge.

"He then said that they had not come here to molest or harm citizens, but the citizens were at the windows and streets. He had sent guards up and down the streets telling the people to go to their cellars with their wives and children as the only safe place. Addressing Mr. Wills, he said, don't you know that you might have been a dead man, picked off that roof by a sharpshooter. He ended by telling me I should go home and attend to my business, and that if any of his men molested any citizens he would punish them. I remember Mr. Cass. Neely and General Early fell to talking after he had finished with me. I heard Mr. Neely tell him he was a member of the Bar and I heard Gen. Early reply that he was a member of the Lyuechburg Bar.

"I walked away with a Confederate officer and we stopped at corner of Middle and Stratton streets and we got to talking about the war, and I remember him saying if a dozen men at extreme North and extreme South had been hung before the war began we would never have had the war."

"While we were talking a Confederate resting against a fence along Middle street was shot through the head and there was much excitement for a while, as some of them said it must have been fired from the school building. I told the officer I was with that there was no one in that building and that it must have been a random shot.

"When I came out of the cellar the evening of the first day I saw a big bay horse dead in the gutter in front of Davie Froxel's place and heard there were others in the town. On the morning of the second day George Eckenrode was with me and I proposed that we get a rope and some men and drag the horse away, but we could not get the help. Then I went to the McClellan House. A Confederate officer had his head-quarters in the open space between the hotel and the barber shop standing next to the house on corner of the present Weaver corner. I went to this officer and asked him to lend me a team to drag off the dead horse and he answered—"You people are getting damn nice up here. Why didn't you come down and help us when they were lying three deep at our doors at Fredericksburg?"

Festival.

The Mummaburg Union church will hold a festival on the church grounds on Saturday evening, July 23, for the benefit of the church. Everybody welcome.

I. S. MILLER, cashier of East Berlin Nat'l Bank has purchased a 25 horsepower Overland auto and his daughter Miss May is often seen behind the steering wheel.

The I. O. O. F. Pen Mar Reunion.

The Tri-State league composed of forty subordinate lodges holding annual reunions during the last five years near Harper's Ferry have decided not to hold the usual reunion this year but join in the Pen-Mar Union on August 4th.

Arrangements for this reunion have been completed. The Wayne band of Waynesboro will give a concert program at 1.30 preceding the literary program.

The speakers for the occasion will be: Grand Master E. E. Craumer, Pittsburg; Grand Master J. S. Green, M. D., Baltimore, and Rev. B. H. Hart, D. D., Harrisburg, former grand master of this state.

After the formal program in the auditorium there will be competitive drills by a number of cantons (the uniformed rank) and drills by the Rebekahs, the women's auxiliary of the order.

All arrangements now look to a very large crowd and preparations are being made by railroads for carrying great numbers of people to Pen-Mar on that day.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Gettysburg Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache. Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Gettysburg citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. James Bumbaugh, 126 E. Middle street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I can confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, when I gave a public statement, recommending them. My system was filled with uric acid and in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly get out of bed. My joints were swollen and the kidney secretions caused me much annoyance by their irregularity in passage. Acting on the advice of a friend, I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Peoples Drug Store. They helped me from the first and gradually the symptoms of my trouble disappeared until I was well. I urge anyone suffering from kidney complaint, to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Rescue of Injured Innocence

By John Carmichael
(Copyright, 1909 by Associated Literary Press.)

When Poindexter, on a sketching tramp, came upon the spot that June morning, he remarked to himself that it was the most perfect setting for a highway robbery or a murder he had ever seen east of the Mississippi. The fact that he knew that it was not a dozen miles from New York city did not make it seem less so. The path below him ran through a ravine, whose rocky precipitous sides, overgrown with low scrub oak and pine, would furnish hiding places for a score of highwaymen. From where he lay, 25 feet or more above the path, there was not a house, not a human being in sight, although he knew that over beyond the clump of pines there was a respectable farmhouse, surrounded by its prosaic vegetable garden and orchards, and that the railroad station on the Shore View road was only a quarter of a mile away.

Poindexter had not yet outgrown his boyish love of adventure, and as he lay there on the moss in the cool shadow of the pines, he amused himself imagining various tragic and romantic happenings, appropriate to the spot. The whistle of a passing freight train, sounding shrilly near, at last dissipated his dreams, and he rolled over, laughing happily and calling himself a fool.

He was lying on his back, his hands clasped under his head, watching the feathery pine branches swaying in the sunshine against the blue sky, when a slight sound broke the peaceful stillness. He listened a moment, and then raised his head, cautiously peering around the corner of the boulder, which quite hid him from view of a passerby below.

Down the patch, walking straight toward him, came a graceful girl in a white gown, swinging a broad hat in her hand. She made such a perfect picture, coming as she did through the sunshine, dappled with shadows, the light falling on her bronze hair and bringing out every perfect line of her

"Will You Marry Me To-Day or Will You Not?"

beautiful figure, that Poindexter's artistic soul was seized with a desire to paint her. She was walking in a brown study at first, her eyes on the ground, as if she were buried in thought, but when she was so near to Poindexter that he could have spoken to her without raising his voice, she stopped and lifted her face to the sky with a look of rapture, as if she were filled with the joy of living, of being out there all alone under those pines and that infinite sky.

As she stood thus, Poindexter leaned forward. He could see every feature distinctly, even the color of her eyes, and he was puzzled by a maddeningly vague resemblance to some one he had met, or seen, before. Who was this girl, and what could she be doing all alone in this deserted spot?

Suddenly, as he watched her, her eyes dropped to the path ahead of her, and Poindexter saw a look of terror come into her face. At the same moment he heard a step approaching, although the newcomer was hidden from him by a turn in the path. The girl, however, could see him distinctly, and as she watched him coming, she began to back away, step by step, one hand raised to her breast, as if to still the beating of her heart.

By leaning far over, Poindexter could see a man, an exceedingly disagreeable-looking person, coming toward her, with a sinister look on his face. It was exactly the sort of smile a spider might wear as he bore down on the captured fly. He was not a tramp, by any means. He was dressed in the height of fashion, and Poindexter wondered what any man, looking so much like a tailor's model, was doing on a lonely path in the woods at 11 o'clock in the morning.

"Ha, ha," he said still smiling. "At last I have found you. Perhaps now you will listen to me, my Lady Diana."

The girl gave a low cry and looked wildly about her, as though searching for a way to escape, but the man quickly stepped up to her. Poindexter rose quickly, silently, to a crouching attitude, ready to spring in a moment.

"The plot thickens," he said to himself. "Talk about 'never the time and the place'! It's positively theatrical in its setting, this little drama."

The man seized the girl by the wrist. "Answer me now," he said. "Will you marry me to-day, or will you not? I give you one more chance. If you will not marry me, at least you will marry no one else." A look of madness came into his eyes and to Poindexter's horror he drew out a revolver. He could hear the click as the villain cocked it.

Without waiting for any more developments of the melodrama, Poindexter bounded to his feet, leaped down the bank, stumbling over rocks, crashing through bushes, and precipitated his 175 pounds of hard-trained muscle on the man, who, taken un-awares, fell like a shot in the path. Then, with savage thirst for blood, Poindexter proceeded to pummel the villain vigorously, after wrenching away the revolver and throwing it into the bushes, where it went off harmlessly. He heard the girl shriek wildly, but oblivious to everything but the desire to punish the man he was unconscious of the entrance of any other actors on the scene until he was suddenly, forcibly, but with great difficulty, pulled from his victim.

When he staggered to his feet and looked about him, he wondered if he were in a nightmare. A stout theatrical-looking man was dancing up and down with rage, the rescued lady was wringing her hands and at the same time laughing hysterically, and a little German supporting a large camera on a tripod with one hand was shaking his fist in Poindexter's face, while two men were holding his arms so tightly behind his back that he could hardly endure the pain.

The villain of the drama slowly rose to his feet, disclosing a ghastly bruised and bleeding countenance.

"There, you meddling fool!" the stout person sputtered. "You see what you've done! You've ruined the film and spoiled Judson's face, so he won't be able to go on again for weeks. I'll have you arrested at once, sir."

Poindexter, dazed and feeling as if he were awaking from a dream, gazed blankly from him to the beautiful lady. At his look of dumb appeal she ceased to wring her hands and began to wipe away genuine tears.

"Oh, he thinks it's all real," she gasped hysterically. "He thinks it's all real." Then she dropped a little curtsy, one hand on her heart, her face wreathed in smiles. "My dear pugnacious young man," she said, "you have seriously interfered with the photographing of the moving-picture drama, 'The Revenge of the Rejected Lover.' I suppose you have spoiled about a thousand films, as it seems that Mr. Gravestien kept on automatically snapping you during your very dramatic performance. You do not, apparently, know the ropes, so I will explain to you that he and I, nodding toward the villain, 'belong to a stock company that spends all its time posing for moving-picture plays. I am Antoinette Dubois. You may have heard of me.'"

And then Poindexter knew why her face had been so familiar. He had seen her play a score of times in popular plays on the legitimate stage.

The stout manager, however, was not to be appeased. He had not yet recovered from his rage, his color was still alarmingly brilliant and he was beating impatiently on the ground with his stick.

"But—but," he sputtered, "you have ruined the film and it costs money—a moving-picture film. You have spoiled our whole morning's work."

"Mr. Cavendish," the little German photographer deposited his camera in a safe place and came forward rubbing his hands and beaming at his inspiration. "Mr. Cavendish, vy not change de name of de piece—call it 'The Rescue of Injured Innocence,' or somedings of dat nature. You can always get beable to pose for your 'Jealous Lover,' Mr. Cavendish, but never vill you get anything so realistic again as this scene. Ach, it was beautiful to see de so strong young man come leaping down de rocks and fall upon de villain. It vill take with de beoble, Mr. Cavendish, and you vill haf money in your pocket."

And this was the way that that exceedingly popular moving-picture film, "The Rescue of Injured Innocence," had its origin. And, incidentally, it is the way Antoinette Dubois happened to change her name to Poindexter and leave the stage.

Takes Surname of Bride.

It is one thing to ask a girl to marry—quite another to ask her to change her name. So thinks the man who used to be John Melephant Williams. He loved Miss Agnes A. Wood, but it was as Agnes A. Wood that he loved her, and he did not desire to change her name to Agnes A. Williams. So he married Miss Agnes A. Wood recently, and her name is now Mrs. Agnes A. Wood.

Incredible as that looks on the face of it it is true, says the Denver Republican. For John Melephant Williams had his own name changed before the ceremony to John Melephant Wood. His petition for the change was granted by Judge Dixon of the county court. Without leaving the courthouse the man with the new identity went down to the first floor and signed his new name to an application for a marriage license.

She Knew Her Dick.

He—Darling, I swear by this great tree, whose spreading branches shade us from the heat, by this noble tree I swear I have never loved before."

She—You always say such appropriate things, Dick. This is a cheat-out tree!

SENATOR GRIM'S STATEMENT

ONLY THREE DELEGATES WANT ANOTHER CONVENTION

Ring Call to Democrats to Avoid Being Misted—Entitled to Support of Sincere Independents

Senator Webster Grim, Democratic Candidate for Governor, last week issued the following candid statement:

"On June 21st I stated that I believed that I was the honest choice of the majority of the delegates to the Democratic State Convention, but that if a majority of the delegates would say that they were misled in they desired the convention recalled, I would decline the nomination and open the way for a reconvened convention. Notwithstanding that statement was published in all parts of the State, and the delegates have been entirely removed from influence and have been free to exercise their own judgment, only three delegates have written me suggesting a reconvention, and all of these supported Mr. Berry in the convention. According to newspaper reports, other requests have been secured through the efforts of Mr. Bonniwell, but it is likely that they were secured not so much for the purpose of getting an unbiased opinion as they were to secure another trial for Mr. Berry. In fact it has become quite apparent that the dissatisfaction and demand for a recall emanated almost entirely from the desire to have Mr. Berry nominated. That issue was settled fairly and unanimously in the convention.

"I repeat, and make it as emphatic as language can express it, that I had no knowledge of Mr. Munson's intended withdrawal until it was made public. That we did not expect such a turn of affairs is conclusively proved by our activities along our plan of campaign. Furthermore it was of no consequence to me or my friends, except that it saved us one ballot, and to that extent made nomination easier.

"It is true that prior to the convention I was not the choice of the supporters of Mr. Berry or of the influential leaders of our party, but to-day so far as any convention can make it so, the nominees are the unanimous choice of all the factions, and they are nominated without any contracts, pledges, bargains or obligations, expressed or implied, to any interests, save for the good of the Commonwealth. If I am elected, every Democrat, whether for or against my nomination, will get a square deal and I will be free to rehabilitate the party in the State.

"In conclusion I want to sound a note of warning. Certain men for purposes peculiarly their own, and probably actuated by sinister motives, not necessary now to discuss, are encouraging dissatisfaction within our ranks by innuendo and misrepresentation, they have touched a responsive chord of sympathy in some honest, well-meaning, thoughtless, Democrats, some of whom unfortunately have political grievances of their own. It is a new picture with the same old frame. I caution all Democrats to ponder and consider well before going into a third party movement, which is based upon nothing more substantial than innuendo and sophistry. The division in our party at this time, when every indication is rosy with success, is capable of no other interpretation than that the promoters thereof are secret allies, and their Democratic followers innocent dupes, of the Penrose Machine, and that they prefer not only the defeat and disruption of the Democratic party but the success of the Republican ticket with all that implies.

"During my service of eight years in the Senate of the State, I have never failed to aid and assist every cause advocated by the Committee of Seventy as their counsel will verify and legislation demanded by other reform bodies, and I am entitled to their support now as much as any Democrat in the State of Pennsylvania. If they are as sincere as they used to be, I have no concern as to the final outcome.

"I have received about a dozen letters from strong partisans of Mr. Berry assuring me that the writers are satisfied that he should have been nominated, and assigning various reasons. There is no doubt, as stated by Mr. Long, before the convention was held, that the sentiment for Mr. Berry in many localities was very strong.

"Upon the other hand I have received a much larger number of letters from Democrats, known by me to have an equal interest in the public welfare, who declare that the ticket named is the only one under the circumstances that could offer any hope of success.

"This test of public sentiment shows that, while in a number of localities the voters were disappointed because Mr. Berry was not nominated, and have been lead to believe that there was some hidden mystery in the convention, the Democrats of the State as expressed through their representatives selected under the primary law, are practically unanimous in their determination to allow the decree of the convention to stand as the unanimous judgment of the party.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Senator Herbst on Grim.

Senator Edward M. Herbst, of Berks county, well known in Adams county, came out in a strong letter last week putting in the right light the Democratic candidacy of Senator Grim for Governor.

"Senator Grim is the victim of the most un-American and un-Democratic treatment in the political history of our State. The conduct of the syndicate newspapers and envious Democrats is both unfair and unjust. Others who make no claim to be fair or just, or to be Democrats, have a perfect right to their opinion—naught could be expected from them. I have attended Democratic conventions for a quarter of a century, and never was there a nomination more fairly and squarely won. Harty in the convention of 1890 at Scranton had to even use the road roller to nominate Pattison. Grim and Berry were open candidates for months, and Munson a self-styled receptive candidate, with a few others casually mentioned. Open primaries were held and not a single contesting delegation appeared in the convention. Free play was given every delegation to nominate and vote for its choice. Grim certainly was not responsible that Munson slunked or that other names were not placed before the convention. Eliminate the vote of Philadelphia and Allegheny altogether and he still had a majority. Bonniwell moved to make Grim's nomination unanimous, and Berry congratulated him.

No one knows better than Mr. Berry that Grim is as stalwart a foe to Penroseism (and was of Quayism) as he himself. He fought with the handful of faithful Democratic Senators all the evils of which the people complain, even before Mr. Berry came into the time light in 1906. He was elected in Republican Bucks on this issue in 1902, and having kept the faith and been true to his trust was re-elected to the Senate in 1906, overcoming a Republican majority of 2000. During his eight years in the Senate he was as brave and as right on all matters affecting the welfare of the State as Cressy, and led as many forlorn hopes.

He is a man and not a manikin. He is not Colonel Guffey's man, nor any other man's man. He owns himself and has a conscience of his own. We Senators who for all these years fought by his side know him best, and therefore, were for him. He was not the choice of the organization so-called, even at 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening, before the convention. He had a laudable ambition for the nomination, and of course, did not ask anyone not to vote for him. The one Democratic Senator who would not even call on Colonel Guffey when he came to Harrisburg was even a stronger advocate of Grim than myself. "Test me forget," how the head-lines used to flare in the "North American" about Grim's gallant and hopeless fights! How its correspondent hung daily over his desk for information and suggestion! What a change in the morning! Why? I appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober. Suffice it to say that Senator Grim was on the side of the people on every question, not only passively, but actively, during his whole Senatorial career. I defy contradiction. I know whereof I speak.

He knows more about the rottenness on Capitol Hill, and in the State government, than any man mentioned by either side for the high office of Governor. He would and can clean the Augean stables better than anyone else. I again speak from actual experience and knowledge as the oldest Senator in service on the Democratic side, and with one exception in the entire Senate of Pennsylvania.

Does not such a man, such a Democrat, such a friend of the people, at least deserve fair treatment? I am not a gangster and have never been accused of even the slightest partiality for them if they masquerade under my own party's name. Gangsters all look alike to me, but to have an honest man like Grim foully assailed, and by innuendo slighted, makes my blood boil with righteous indignation.

Every decent man exonerates to this day the military murderers of Marshal Ney, the "bravest of the brave." Well may Senator Grim exclaim, in a paraphrase of Ney's last words, "One hundred battles have I fought for Pennsylvania's honor—not one against it. Comrades, fire on me!"

Tall Oats.

We notice a great deal of boasting of tall oats, but can this be beaten? Squire Hammers passed through a field of oats on his mother's farm July 4, pulled up a stock of oats every 25 steps at the side of the field he had 8 stalks in his hand, each stalk measuring 63 inches and averaged 100 grains of oats. We say to the moneyed men of Adams if a farm will produce such stalks without lime and manure, it would if improved produce oats eight feet high. And the widow has offered this farm for the last three years at $35 per acre, soil better than hundreds of gardens. Come and see the place. Will sell at once.

HOW COMPILER WAS REPORTED

The facts have at length been smoked out. The Compiler was reported to the Post Office Department by Wm. B. McIlhenny, while postmaster at Gettysburg. That this official discriminated, made a difference between the Democratic Compiler and other newspapers clearly appears. The following letter of Wm. B. McIlhenny proves our case. He sought to leave a wrong impression by his recent open letter by withholding his letter of May 7th. We leave to the public the smallness and contemptibleness of his act. On Monday we received by special delivery mail, the following letter. In reading same remember that the Compiler for purposes of self-protection, had asked whether order 907 was to be applicable to county newspapers and was advised on March 31, 1908, that it was not the intention of the Department to harass legitimate publications or in any way embarrass them, and that this communication was exhibited to the then Postmaster Wm. B. McIlhenny who admits seeing it. Notwithstanding—but here are the letters.

"Gettysburg, Pa., July 18th, 1910.
"To the Editor of "The Compiler,
"Dear Sir:—
"In an editorial in your issue of the 13th you ask, with reiteration, for my letter of May 7th, 1908 to the Third Asst. P. M. General.
"I beg to enclose copy of the same with copy of that official's reply and ask that you print them both. I have further to request that you reprint your editorial 'A Little Print Shop Talk,' which appeared in one of your issues between Mar. 1st and May 8th, 1908, and in which justification, more than ample, will be found for any reflections contained in the second paragraph of my report to the Department.
"Respectfully,
"Wm. B. McIlhenny."

"Hon. Third Assistant P. M. General,

"Sir:—
"In this place there are published two weekly newspapers known as the 'Gettysburg Compiler' and the 'Star and Sentinel' neither of which I am led to believe, are meeting the requirements of order No. 907 effective Jan. 1st, 1908, or Apr. 1st, 1908, in full.
"The publisher of the first named paper has put forth very little effort to meet the new requirements. Aside from publishing the text of the order applicable to his paper and making indignant remarks about the same, he has done nothing, which we could construe to be intended to enforce the order. The subscription list remains practically the same, there are some local subscribers whom we know have not paid their subscriptions to within the required time, and we believe there are similar cases in other mailing lists.
"The publisher of the latter named paper has, we believe, put forth a very honest effort to bring his publication up to the new requirements. He has sent statements to all in arrears, with the text of the order applicable printed thereon. From his mailing list excepting Gettysburg, he has discontinued a great number who did not pay their subscriptions to the required limit. We believe the local list to be the same, and though most of the subscribers are legal yet there are many who are not.
"In reference to the postage on these publications I might add that both publishers pay the same promptly without a murmur, the only abuses being the unpaid subscriptions of more than one year's standing.
"There are other publications in this place daily, weekly, monthly and

A Little Print Shop Talk.

The Compiler has been of the opinion that the columns of the paper was not the proper place to indulge in print shop talk, that if the editor or business end had a kick coming or a growl to let go, was no excuse to take up space the reader was entitled to. We however ask the indulgence of the following spell, because it is being thrust upon us.

The U. S. post office department is not satisfied to allow Congress to make all the laws under the constitutional authority, but seeks to go into the law making business with the following rule, declaring,
"That unless subscriptions to newspapers are expressly renewed after the term for which they are paid, weeklies within one year shall not be accepted for mailing at the second class postage rate but may be mailed at the rate of one cent prepaid by stamp at fixed."

This is to say that the paper of the subscriber over a year in arrears will require a one cent stamp affixed to each issue to be mailable, and it is a business proposition that cannot be disputed that the printer cannot pay 52 cents a year to mail the paper to a subscriber over a year in arrears and give the man in arrears his newspaper at the same subscription price as to the man who is not in arrears.

Whether this postoffice ruling will be put into force and effect may yet be a question, for the press of the country is almost a unit against it. The Maine Press Association calls it a usurpation of the legal rights of both the publisher and subscriber. The Pennsylvania Press passed resolutions at a meeting which the editor of the Compiler attended, calling the rule unjust and iniquitous and called upon our United States Senators and Congressmen to have the obnoxious order revoked.

It has been said that this rule of the Post Office Department will be beneficial to newspapers, but what newspaper wants benefit with a big stick behind it. Whether beneficial or not, isn't the question as we see it?

The paternalism involved in the order makes it most un-American, obnoxious and dangerous. In other words it is none of the business of the U. S. government whether a genuine, bona fide subscriber is in arrears or not. To play the roll of the daddy for the newspaper in the matter of arrears in subscriptions is an entering wedge or precedent to play daddy for other usurpations. With this precedent the Post Office Department could make other rules of what is mailable. One year in arrears might be made one day or matters of advertising might be gone into, in order that the post office law making machine have a chance to declare what is mailable. The future could develop a paternalism which in effect would be a censor over newspapers, effecting both the business and news end of the publishing business and the American liberty of the press would be clouded.

Many Women who are Splendid Cooks

dread having to prepare an elaborate dinner because they are not sufficiently strong to stand over an intensely hot coal range. This is especially true in summer. Every woman takes pride in the table she sets, but often it is done at tremendous cost to her own vitality through the weakening effect of cooking on a coal range in a hot kitchen.

It is no longer necessary to wear yours. If out preparing a fine dinner. Even in the heat of summer you can cook a large dinner without being worn out.

We are opposed to all these forms of paternalism. If a paper is mailable it is mailable whether the printer has paid for the paper on which it is printed, or whether the bona fide subscriber is 5 years in advance or 5 years in arrears.

Many papers are appealing to their subscribers to come in and pay. We have not done this as we seek no advantage from a big stick.

The publisher is largely responsible for arrears. In other words the service of the publisher makes for arrears or otherwise and that is as it should be. If the publisher spends to produce a better paper, kept modern, using good paper, well printed and full of news, the subscribers respond to the service with prompt payment of subscriptions. If the service is poor everything else is accordingly. A national advertiser in touch with hundreds of papers recently said to us, in making a contract, that he desired to congratulate us on the appearance of our paper, and in appearance would class us among the best weekly newspapers.

The Compiler has little to complain of for we feel our subscribers have appreciated our efforts by keeping paid up and will take care of us if the United States Post Office insists upon forcing upon us its un-American rule of April 1st

In conclusion the Compiler has been reported because an officious official is led to believe, construes and believes, things about the Compiler and justifies his act because the Compiler is of the opinion that the Post Office ruling is un-American—obnoxious and dangerous. He would punish because one has an opinion contrary to a department. He would curb the liberty of the press. Eah, such an official is well out of a job. He has mistaken his country and its institutions—he belongs to Russia

UNJUST DISCRIMINATION

The story of the Compiler being reported to the Post Office Department, appearing in another column is simply one of unjust discrimination. The Compiler has been made to do something no other paper in the county has been required to do, namely to report under oath that its circulation complies with Department ruling. The ex-postmaster unjustly discriminated, and when Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General Travers says in his last report, "Where however complaint was lodged against a local newspaper depending, along with others, upon a local field for support, the circulation of each of the competing papers was made the subject of inquiry in order that a charge of discrimination might not justly lie against this office" his words are meaningless in Adams County.

AND DAVY WENT SLOW.

Davy seemingly takes exception to the suggestion that Bill B. didn't offer enough for the publication of his Open Letter and adds "we were in no position to take up VALUABLE space" which certainly sounds like the same thing. He consigns the Compiler to the P. O. Dept. evidently anxious so to do and also to be rid of being in the consignment. Yet he came into discussion of his own accord. And instead of explaining what he was trying to talk about in complying with P. O. orders 4 years ago, a year and a half before they were made, he goes slow, stops altogether and begins talking about his columns of advertising. And just here it may not be inappropriate to remark that when 22 columns of advertising in his paper are used by Hanover and York advertisers to take business out of the county, such advertising can only be beneficial to Davy alone and not to the business interests of the community and county in which the paper is supposed to be looking for support.

Let every Democrat and Independent read the statement of the Democratic candidate for Governor, Webster Grim on the third page and also the letter of Senator Herbst about Senator Grim, and there can be no excuse for either Democrat or Independent taking off their coats and going to work for Grim.

LIGHTNING KILLS A BOY

WHILE STANDING UNDER TREE
ALONG E. CONFEDERATE AVE.

Sad Death of Mrs. Lowe, of Philadelphia, Well Known in this Community.

Roy Stroup, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Stroup, living on corner of Middle and Stratton streets, was instantly killed Tuesday evening of last week while standing under a tree at the second bridge along East Confederate Avenue.

There had been a storm during the afternoon, a very heavy drenching storm, and the boy concluding it would be a good time to hunt bullets, started away from home for that purpose after five o'clock. He reached the second bridge on East Confederate Avenue about the time the second storm came up and took refuge under the big tree at that point.

The last person to see him alive was Battlefield guard Wm. Spangler who came along about time storm was beginning and he spoke to the boy, telling him he had better come along with him.

The body was not found until after seven o'clock when a party going over the battlefield arrived at that point, when he was discovered lying on his face down the embankment under the tree. An examination of tree made it clear that a branch of the tree had taken the bolt of lightning, there being pieces of bark clipped away and at point where head of the boy is presumed to have rested a big piece of bark was knocked out of tree. The boy was evidently getting the best shelter possible, crouched with head against tree and when the bolt struck him he was hurled at full length to the ground. The body was not disfigured. The hair was slightly singed and there were a few marks on his back, but at no place was the skin broken.

When body was found Dr. Henry Stewart was summoned and death was pronounced due to lightning bolt and the body was at once removed to his home. The death of Roy was a great shock to his parents, an older brother and a sister. He was a bright boy, had been carrying papers for Samuel Bumbaugh since camp opened, and was a popular little fellow with the many friends he had throughout town, and his early tragic death is most distressing. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Joseph B. Baker conducting the services with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Roy Stroup was fourteen years of age and is survived by his parents, one sister, Irene, and one brother, Earl. Mr. Stroup during the encampment, has had charge of the government pumping station along the York pike.

Mrs. JULIA FRANCES LOWE, wife of J. J. Lowe, who with her husband took an active part in evangelistic work and for many years assisted her husband in conducting song services at religious gatherings, was found dead on Sunday, July 10th, a suicide by gas. The bathroom of her home in Philadelphia, where she had lived but three days was the scene of the tragedy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lowe were well known in Gettysburg having at various times conducted song services in the local churches. Mr. Lowe talked to his wife over the telephone Saturday afternoon, and tried to make arrangements with her to accompany him to a camp, but she told him not to be disappointed if she did not arrive, as she was not feeling well. When she did not go to the camp on Saturday night he did not think anything amiss, but returned home Sunday morning about eight o'clock. He gave the bell three pulls to warn his wife that he was entering the house, as was his usual custom, and when he stepped into the hallway he whistled cheerily to the dog, which usually came bounding to greet him. Neither his wife nor the canine answered his salute, nor was there any response to his calls. He then detected the odor of gas and hurried upstairs. Nothing was wrong in the bedroom, and then he went to the bathroom. The door was closed, and as he dragged it open he saw his wife, a huddled heap on the floor, the dog clasped to her breast. He carried her limp form to the bedroom, and hastened for Dr. Leo Strauss, a nearby physician. The physician declared that the woman had been dead for several hours. The gas cock in the bathroom was wide open and the doors and windows were tightly closed. Prof. Lowe declared yesterday that the only reason he could believe responsible for his wife's act was that the heat had affected her mind. He said that she had had several periods of melancholia since the death of a favorite sister two years ago. Mrs. Lowe left a note addressed to her husband. He refused to divulge its contents, declaring that it was a private matter entirely.

SAMUEL G. WIEST, a prominent druggist, died at his home in Ashland,

Ohio, Saturday, July 9th from cerebral hemorrhages, aged 60 years. Mr. Wiest, was a son of the late Jacob Wiest, of near New Oxford, Pa., and located in Ashland when a young man and after graduating in pharmacy conducted a large drug store in that place. He is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter, of Ashland. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Wiest, of Dillsburg, York county; one brother, Chas. Wiest, of Ashland, Ohio, and four sisters, Mrs. N. R. Bailey, of Dillsburg; Mrs. John Mowery, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Emma Foose and Mrs. Geo. A. Miller, of New Oxford.

MRS. LYDIA SMITH died at her home in Huntington township on Sunday afternoon, July 10th, from the infirmities incident to old age, in her 90th year. The deceased was born and reared in the vicinity of Heidelberg and was a resident of Huntington township ever since her marriage to Boreas Smith, dec'd. many years ago. She leaves two sons and a daughter, John W. Smith and Emanuel Smith of Tyrone township and Mrs. Theodore Overholzer of Plainfield, Cumberland county, Pa. The funeral services were last Wednesday with interment at Upper Meridian where the deceased was a member. Rev. Harvey Bickel conducted the services.

SAMUEL HUGHES died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. W. Krebs on East Middle street on last Saturday morning, aged 72 years, 9 months and 14 days. He had been in feeble health and wandered away from home on the previous Saturday and was not found until last Wednesday when he was discovered near McAllister's Dam and was very weak from the four days' exposure and lack of food. He was at once taken home and tenderly nursed under direction of the family physician, but grew worse until death ensued. He had formerly resided in Taneytown and came to Gettysburg about five years ago. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning with interment in Mt. View cemetery, Harney. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Krebs of East Middle street, and Mrs. Frank M. Patterson of West High street, this place. He has a number of relatives in Harney, Taneytown, and near Littlestown, and it was supposed he had gone to see some of them when he wandered off.

Mrs. JULIA ANN FLOHR, wife of William Flohr, died on July 9th, aged 70 years, after a month's illness. She leaves a husband and ten children and was well known to many of our people in southwestern part of the county.

Mrs. ANNE ELIZA STAHLEY, widow of the late Oliver Stahley, who died 16 years ago, was found dead in her bed at the Alms House, Tuesday morning, July 12, aged 80 years. The cause of her death, it is said, was a stroke, which she had some time during the night. Deceased was born and reared in Germany township, later moving to Littlestown, where she lived until a few years ago. Mrs. Emma Britcher of Hanover, and Mrs. Wm. Wisotzkey and Mrs. Lucinda Rohrbach of Littlestown, are daughters of the deceased. The remains were interred at Christ Church near Littlestown on last Wednesday.

In Memoriam
In sad but loving remembrance of my husband, James Francis Becker, who died three years ago, July 16, '07.

Gone from earth, yes gone forever,
Tear dimmed eyes shall gaze in vain
I shall hear his voice, no, never,
Never more on earth again.

Oh God how strong these earthly ties,
By death's cold finger riven!
Oh grant us grace that when we die
To meet again in Heaven!
—By his wife.

FRUIT GROWERS AT RECENT MEETING DISCUSS PEACHES

Recent Sales of Real Estate—Trolley Grading at Conowago Stops.

The Fruit Growers Association of Adams Co., held their July meeting in Fruit Growers Hall, Bendersville. George Oyer discussed subject of "Handling of Peach Crop" and spoke of the necessity of thinking out fruit. That it is absolutely necessary, both for the quality of fruit and health of tree, to remove such amount of fruit as will enable the trees to properly mature the balance without affecting the vitality of tree.

W. S. Adams spoke on "Packaging," that it was only worth while to pack the very finest fruit and for local markets the half bushel peach basket was preferable. Levi M. Myers of near Dillsburg, discussed "Picking, Grading and Packing."

The Association expects to have an early meeting and discuss further the peach crop and transportation and see whether refrigeration can be secured.

The following sales of real estate in county have been made. G. W. Koser has bought the Smith Martin farm above Bendersville. H. J. March has bought the Hafer farm of 124 acres at the Two Churches for $3,500. Monroe Grove of Latimore township has bought the Levi Arendt's 40 acre farm near the Barren's church for $3,000. Amos Bushey of York Springs, has sold his 125 acre farm to John Livingston for $5,500.

Contractor John Dobbling and outfit, have stopped work on the grading of trolley extension from Conowago to New Oxford. He has gone to Washington D. C. with outfit, to complete a grading contract. He expects to return within two months to finish the grading between McSherrystown and New Oxford.

Fire destroyed the barn on farm of William Erb of Latimore township, tenanted by Emanuel Dav. The family had retired and knew nothing of fire until aroused by Peter Sheetz, a neighbor, who saw the flames burst from the lower part of the barn. Mr. Day lost all his farming utensils, two horses, a cow and he carried no insurance. The building was insured for $1000. The origin of the fire is supposed to incendiary.

At the beginning of season Bigler ville did not possess an auto, now three of its citizens have annexed them. John Deatrick and S. G. Bigham, followed quickly after Dr. Hildebrand in the purchase of machines and are enjoying them.

C. W. GARDNER of York Springs caught ten bass in Conowago on a recent day, the largest weighing over 6 lbs.

Worst Pest Than Brigands.
On the highways of turbulent Catalonia one might expect that the chief danger to the traveler would be the brigand. By no means! The greatest pests are the small children, who accost one at every turn. Treated with the utmost consideration by their parents—they are never corrected, it is said, in any circumstances whatsoever—they track the foreigner, with the irritating pertinacity of the mosquito. And, like the mosquito, they seek blood, crying:
"I have neither father nor mother! Since centimos!" And the grubby hands shoot up into one's face.

The Consoling Volume.
There was a backward student at Balliol who, for failure to pass an examination in Greek, was "sent down." His mother went to see the master, Dr. Jowett, and explained to him what an excellent lad her son was. "It is a hard experience for him, this disgrace," said the old lady; "but he will have the consolation of religion, and there is always one book to which he can turn." Jowett eyed her for a moment and then answered: "Yes, madam; the Greek grammar. Good-morning."

Why Mary Recovered.
"John, I don't want you to grieve too long when I am gone."
"I shall have to look sorry for a week or two, Mary. Just for the looks of things, but I shall perk up after that and begin to take notice. Don't you think Widow Jinx is a fine lookin' little woman?"—Houston Post.

Removing Skin Blistches.
Some fresh barbers have got on to the new and highly-scientific way of removing skin blotches, birth marks, etc. They buy a high-pressure cylinder of carbonic acid gas costing $2.50 and turn the stuff loose in a little bag of charmois skin where it sets into an intensely cold, hard ball of carbonic acid snow. This is applied on the spot or blemish for five or ten minutes, which usually disappears after three or four applications a week apart.—New York Press.

Results of Travel.
When one travels one soon discovers that the "light-headed" Frenchman is the best of fathers and a most thrifty person, and that perfidious Albion, the "unscrupulous nation," is a people of pious idealists, fanatics and righteousness and liberty.—Prague Prager-Tagblatt.

MRS. S. M. SMITH, of Bonneville operated on in Baltimore hospital is reported as recovering nicely.

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer, the sum of one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Some of the Most Entertaining Topics and Interesting Thoughts and Unusual Things of the Moment to the People of Adams County.

BUCHANAN VALLEY.

Miss Genevieve C. Cole of Altoona is visiting her parents of this place, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cole.

Visitors to the Valley during the past week were Miss Rose Byers of Chambersburg, Mr. Carter of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Shoemaker of Caledonia, with her sister Mrs. Boerner, of Pittsburg, Rev. Geo. Brown and friend Mr. McEntee of the State Sanatorium, Mt. Alto, Pa., Mrs. Rebecca Kuhn of Cashtown, Wm. Ely, wife and daughter-in-law, and baby Rose Ely, accompanied by her great-grandfather.

The farmers have begun cutting the grain here with cradles and binders. The wheat crop seems to be quite good. Your correspondent paid a visit to the home of Daniew E. Long of Fayetteville, last Saturday.

Raymond F. Cole and A. M. Strasbaugh have returned from Franklin county, where they were engaged in harvesting wheat.

Miss Josephine McDermitt has returned home from her brother's near Fairfield, and spent a week in Chambersburg from where she returned last evening to her home in the Valley.

Miss Jane McDermitt spent a few days with her mother last week, from Chambersburg.

Edward Hall had a cow killed this week; it is supposed by a stone which was thrown by some one. The loss is heavy for Mr. Hall, added to his other misfortunes of the past winter and spring.

A class of thirty-one of St. Ignatius' Sunday School received their first Holy Communion on last Sunday at the 8 o'clock mass. The girls were dressed in white and wore veils and wreaths. They were received into the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin immediately after mass. Rev. Father Conahan, assistant pastor, officiated at mass.

Seven year old Warren Sollenberger accompanied by his sister Maria Louise, drove their pony Tom into the Valley last Sunday and spent the day at John Irwin's, a total distance of ten miles.

John Steinberger has gone to Pen-Mar where he has secured employment.

Miss Annie Taylor is at home with her mother on a short vacation from the State Sanatorium at Mt. Alto.

Miss Genevieve Cole passed the teachers' examination at Bendersville very creditably. She had been attending school in Altoona during the past year.

BARLOW.

And now the click of the binder which has been heard for the past two weeks is silent and the golden grain cut and bound into sheaves is being gathered into barns and sheds. By this time most of it is housed. It was a fine harvest to cut and the grain is good.

The gathering of the clover and timothy will be satisfactory as the crop in this section is good.

Oats will be next to claim the farmer's attention. It will be the best oats crop we have had for many years.

We are glad to say the growing corn looks very promising.

The steam whistle can be heard in all directions this morning, but have not heard any report of the yield of wheat and rye.

On Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Rev. Sticksager of Mt. Joy patronage united in marriage Jacob Myrle and Miss Sarah Fox, both of Detour, Md. They spent Saturday night and Sunday with Jacob Boyd and wife.

Mrs. John Irwin and daughter of Philadelphia are spending some weeks with her parents in this place, Mr. and Mrs. Worley Rudisill.

Maurice Sharets of this place is spending a few days in Gettysburg with his sister, Mrs. S. D. Weikert.

Miss Blanche Schriver of Hanover is spending a few days with friends in this place.

ABBOTTSTOWN.

On Saturday, July 10, we had the first showers of rain for several weeks. It supplied a long felt want.

Farmers have nearly all finished hauling grain. Now watch your horse—the thrasher is traveling the road.

The following were elected as teachers of schools for Hamilton township: Hartman's, Samuel Baker; Pine Run, J. Guy Wolf; Green Ridge, Ray Sponteller; Seven Hundred, Nettie Jacobs.

In Berwick township the following were elected as teachers: Green Springs, S. A. Nagle; Walnut Grove, Howard Danner; Beaver Creek, John Herman.

The Reformed Sunday School will picnic in Hafer's grove on July 30. Everybody invited.

On Sunday Rev. A. C. Forscht will preach a German sermon.

IRON SPRINGS.

Master Robert Myers of Camp Hill, and Master Myers Shank from Girard College, are visiting their uncle, Geo. B. March.

Miss Malaun and Miss Kissler of Hanover, are visiting friends in this place.

Miss Nettie Benedict of York was visiting Miss Marie Spatz of this place.

EAST BERLIN.

Grain has all been housed and some of it threshed and it has turned out well, from 20 to 28 bushels to the acre. The East Berlin Milling Company has bought between 300 and 400 bushels of new wheat at 92 cents per bushel. Some farmers who had stored wheat last year when price was $1 15 per bu. sold it at 92 cents.

The Algonquin Camping Club of York, twelve in number, six men and six women, are camping on Locust Island, between the creek and the race, close to the mill.

Our town can boast of having a big number of automobiles. There are twelve in this town.

There was an auto accident in town last week. Clayton Spahr, of Harrisburg street, was learning to run an auto in company with a dealer. They drove out the road and in descending the hill at Edward Reynolds', in some way he lost control of the machine and it struck the iron bridge with such force that two posts were broken and auto badly bent. Mr. Spahr was thrown from the car and landed on his left arm, dislocating and fracturing it at the elbow. Dr. R. E. Lau gave the necessary medical attention.

New Oxford

John U. Rupp is having his house painted, and this improvement adds much to the appearance of the property.

J. E. C. Miller, will begin erection of a building at an early date, having already taken the water into the lot where building is to be erected.

Russel Hensel, son of Wm. Hensel, went to York to be operated on for appendicitis, and latest report is that the operation was successful and that he is recovering.

Plus Noel is having a nice fence put up in front of his house.

Chas. Slaybaugh, who has been sick for the last week is getting better.

Dr. Cashman, who has been away for awhile is home with his parents.

An Irish Newspaper

Mr. Robert Miller of Buford Ave., has laid on our table "The Belfast News-Letter" an edition of twelve pages of eight columns each, the most of which were taken up with the accounts of the services on the occasion of the death of King Edward VII in cities and towns of England, Scotland and Ireland. In Dublin the services are said to mark an epoch in British rule. For the first time in the 700 years and more of the British in Ireland, the two great branches in the Christian communion, the Church of Ireland and the Roman Catholic church, concurred in solemn service to the King of Kings in memory of a Sovereign who did more than any ruler in history to maintain the peace of the world, a Sovereign, moreover, who loved his subjects and showed pity to the poor and needy. The chief commemorative service was at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

In accordance with the traditions of the order, the leaders of Irish Freemasonry held a special and distinct service to commemorate the burial of their Grand Patron, a position which King Edward VII held for so many years. The function took place in St. Andrew's Church at noon, so as to synchronize with the hours of the burial at Windsor. Knights Templars lined the sides of the central aisle, and formed the arch of steel under which the grand officers passed into their places. The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Ireland was represented. Next the representatives of foreign Grand Lodges, including Victoria Frankfurt, Iowa, New Zealand, Delaware, Quebec and North Dakota. Hymns were sung, scripture lesson was read, followed by prayer, hymns and address. After the benediction the Dead March in "Saul" was played on the organ as the grand officers moved out of the church in procession and order.

A Free Scholarship.

Any young man or woman who is a bona fide patron of this paper may secure free instruction in music or elocution.

The Ithaca Conservatory of Music, with the desire to stimulate the study of these arts, offers two scholarships to applicants from the State of Pennsylvania, valued at $100 each, and good for the term of twenty weeks beginning with the opening of the school year, September 15, 1910, in any of the following departments: Voice, Violin, Piano and Elocution.

These scholarships are awarded upon competition which is open to any one desiring a musical or literary education.

Any one wishing to enter the competition or desiring information should write to Mr. Geo. C. Williams, General Manager of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, N. Y., before September 1, 1910.

More as to Lee's Headquarters.

On March 30, 1910, you kindly published in the "Compiler" my article: "Where were General Lee's Headquarters at Gettysburg." April 20, 1910 a mild criticism appeared under the caption: "As to Lee's Headquarters." This last article calls into question the veracity of Widow Thompson, (?) the occupant of the reputed Headquarter House. So far as the writer is concerned, I will say to this aspersion, that I never said or implied that Widow Thompson gave me the information as published in said article.

By referring to my article of March 30, 1910, in the "Compiler," you will find that I mentioned no names but said: "On entering the yard, I found an 'Old Lady' sitting on the porch," etc. I wrote advisedly when I said "Old Lady," because I then knew that the people in the community persisted in saying that Widow Thompson occupied the house at the time of the battle, while Historian Lossing, (also a visitor to the field shortly after the battle) said in his "Civil War in America," Vol. III, page 64, "General Lee made his headquarters on Seminary Ridge at the house of the venerable Mary Marshall, where the Chambersburg road crosses the eminence."

When I called at the reputed Headquarter house in the spring of 1874, my object was not who occupied the house—Thompsons or Marshalls—but what can I learn from the occupants about the headquarter controversy. The conversation reported in my article of March 30, 1910, took place on the porch of the reputed Headquarter House and I did not have to this day, a particle of doubt about the truthfulness of the "Old Lady's" statement, but whether her name was Marshall, Thompson or some other name I can not tell.

Should any reader of the "Compiler" still have any doubts as to whether General Lee did or did not occupy the reputed Headquarter House, please read General Imboden's "Confederate Retreat from Gettysburg," in Vol. III, "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War." I will quote from same as follows:—

1. Page 420. "About 11 p. m. a horseman came to summon me to General Lee, I promptly mounted and accompanied by Lieutenant George W. McPhail, an aid on my staff, and guided by the courier, who brought the message, rode about two miles toward Gettysburg, to where a half a dozen small tents were pointed out, a little way from the road-side to our left, as General Lee's Headquarters for the night." "When we arrived, there was not even a sentinel at his tent, and not one of his staff awake."

2. Page 421. "He (Gen. Lee) invited me into his tent."

3. Page 422. "As I was about leaving to return to my camp, as late, I think, as 2 a. m., he came out of his tent to where I was about to mount, and said in an undertone," etc.

Here you have four verbatim quotations from General Imboden's article, and he says tent or tents every time. Do any of the "Compiler" readers think, that the General would not have had the courage to say house, if it was a house; or is his veracity or credibility also to be questioned?

4. Again, Col. John B. Bachelder, Government Historian of the battle, said: "After the war I had an interview with Gen. Lee and among other things discussed was the question where his headquarters were at the Battle of Gettysburg? Gen. Lee replied in these words": "My Headquarters were in tents in an apple orchard back of the Seminary near the Chambersburg Pike."

5. Col. Walter H. Taylor, Chief of General Lee's staff, writes in a recent letter, "General Lee was under canvas and did not occupy the house." Col. T. R. Talcott, another member of Lee's staff, coincides with his chief.

6. In Samuel P. Bates' History of Pennsylvania Volunteers, Vol. IV, Map, General Lee's Headquarter tents are correctly located.

Here you have the evidence of four reputable gentlemen, who say or imply General Lee's Headquarters were in tents, and the "Old Lady" saying: "I can most positively assure you that General Lee was never in this house," yet your article "As to Lee's Headquarters" impeaches her veracity.

Yours truly
HENRY S. MOYER.

Read the Label.

Under the Pure Food Laws baking powder labels now show the ingredients of which the powder is made.

Those who appreciate the importance to health and good baking of using a pure cream of tartar powder will read the back of the label carefully and make sure that the ingredients mentioned include cream of tartar.

The food law does not force consumers; it merely helps them to protect themselves. All good housekeepers want cream of tartar baking powders, and will not use alum substitutes in the food, if they know it. As the ingredients are printed on the back of the label, all may know the facts.

Good baking powder is one of the most useful things in the kitchen; it is easily obtained at any store; the better it is, the more economical it is in cooking materials, and the more it conserves the health of the family.

ALOYSIUS SMITH of Hanover, over 80 years of age had his left eye removed at Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia. The eye had been sightless for years.

AUGUSTUS FRISER of New Oxford while in act of mounting his hay wagon had his right foot caught in the spokes of wheel by horse starting and ligaments of leg were twisted and torn, causing great pain.

ARENDTSTVILLE.

A number of the progressive men of Arendtsville and vicinity have purchased a large nine passenger automobile to convey passengers to and from Biglerville. It will also carry baggage and merchandise. It was put into operation last Friday and runs on a regular schedule meeting every passenger train and returning promptly. It will be a great convenience to the public here and is expected to be liberally patronized. The company has the following officers: President, P. S. Orner; Secretary, A. D. Sheely; Treasurer, Geo. E. Hoffman; Managers, Dr. Wm. E. Wolff, H. H. Warren and Ira S. Orner. The other members of the company are Geo. R. Hartman, Hon. James F. Cole, Robt. B. Myers, N. R. Bream, Fred. Thomas, Walter Taylor, W. O. Andrew, J. Calvin Thomas, M. H. Hughes, Howard Walter, N. L. Minter, A. J. Bucher, Harry Wirt and J. G. Witmore. The car is run by Harry Wirt who is proving an efficient chauffeur.

The prospect is for a fair apple, peach, pear and quince crop in this locality. Blackberries and grapes will also be a good crop.

Geo. E. Hoffman has got in another crop of new buggies.

Notwithstanding the rain last Saturday evening the order of the K. of P. took in $72.90 at their festival held here.

During the last ten days we had four good showers and all vegetation is flourishing, especially the corn.

Another Barn Burns.

The barn on farm of Sylvester Haun on road from Bonneville to New Oxford in Mt. Pleasant township burnt to the ground on last Saturday evening. It took place at dusk and the whole eastern sky reflected the flames. The fire had great headway when discovered and in addition to his barn Mr. Haun lost two horses, a quantity of wheat and farming implements. There was insurance. Lightning did not cause fire and origin is unknown.

RECORD YOUR DEEDS

By an Act of Assembly of 1893, "All Deeds and Conveyances shall be recorded within ninety days after their execution, or shall be adjudged fraudulent and void against subsequent purchasers."

Also the Act of Assembly of 1909, prescribes a short form of Deeds, and "again requires the recording to make them valid."

It is also a great protection against loss or deed being burned by having them recorded; and costs but a small sum, compared to getting a new deed.

Bring or send them into the Recorder's office, and in a few days they will be returned to you.
